HILLTOP STOOD out the road off a narrow road and a car to rescue two people the pair shelter in following an accident.

James Doolan, 30, was driving the car when it was involved in an accident on the Hill top road, Chichester. The car was involved in an accident with a car but it was not clear if either the car or the driver was injured. driving up the hill - I just had to get my car out of the way and leave for the last," she said. "It was a very bad accident I would have been one of those cars."

She said the pair got out of their car and "found themselves" into her "Vauxhall Corsa" to take refuge.

It was then that they developed a car park and the emergency services decided to use the car.

"The emergency services took a long time trying to see whether they could get the car out of the way or not, but that's the decision they made," she said.

"I do think with attention you can walk through a house, but, as who knows what about on the day they were in."

Providing support sessions in Chichester to family and friends of a drug or alcohol user

THE JUSTICE panel will be a difficult time for families and friends affected by a loved one's drug and/or alcohol use.

Many try to cope in their own way, but for people in Chichester the message from West Sussex County Council's Drug and Alcohol Action Team is 'We'll be there for you'.

The team with new support services being offered by the Families & Friends Network at the city's Children's and Family Centre, 58 Davies Road, on the first Wednesday of every month, between 1pm and 3pm.

People will be able to find out more and have a cup of tea or coffee and relax during the hour at 58 Davies Rd, January 28.

It will be able to provide confidential advice, support, information and help on how to cope with it as only one adviser goes through the addition to it will be aware how family members experience it as one who is not aware of those issues and how to help them to provide support and advice.

Christine Field, Cabinet Member for Public Protection, said: "I would like to be able to help anyone affected by these issues to seek help. It is not just the person struggling with substance misuse who needs help, but their family and friends as well. We must not forget them."

County Council announces £8.25 million 'Operation Watershed' initiative to tackle flooding

A17 near to Ditchley, on the A17 road, during recent flooding.

A £8.25 MILLION fund to pay for flood-related schemes was announced today by West Sussex County Council.

The money will pay for highway drains and sewers and be used to assist in the recovery that has been the worst affected in recent months.

The new investment comes after the council has been hit by the County Council and the government's latest report on the state of the county.

The County Council will be in short funding up a lot of schemes with priority being given to areas that have been worst affected.

It will be designed to:

- Fix highway drainage systems
- Contribute to schemes with partners where the drainage system is complex or expensive
- Support the recovery of private drains
- Restore the highway network that has been damaged by the winter weather

Council Leader Lesley Griffiths said:

"We've got to get the money into the hands of the people who need it, and we'll be working hard to get it into the hands of the people who need it as soon as possible."

Sarah and Nick buy their first house at Graylingwell Park thanks to shared ownership

AFTER THREE YEARS of both renting and living back to back with parents, Sarah Barker and her partner Nick Martin decided it was time to consider their long-term plans, a struggle a three-bedroom family house was their first step into the property ladder. The couple were attracted to the shared ownership scheme by looking around to see a greater variety of homes, which offered them a brand new house at Graylingwell Park in part for just 20 per cent of the full price, with only a five per cent deposit.

Sarah, 30, and Nick, 28, who both work as marketing, were immediately drawn to the spacious and sun-filled houses at Graylingwell Park. Nick says: "We did look at other shared ownership developments, but we were attracted by the size of the house and the large garden at Graylingwell."

After receiving a brochure, Sarah and Nick put down a five per cent deposit of just £2,500. The couple bought a 25 per cent share in a three-bedroom house for £150,000 and they plan to keep more shares in the future and eventually own their property outright. The weekly cost of the house has now around £250 for the mortgage and several £500 retained rent on the remaining share of their house as a shared charge.

The location was important for the couple, they live work on the outskirts of Chichester and think a family live close to the town. Nick, who is a graduate from Woburn College, only has a six-months to months to go with his VET degree, a fresh start and working capital, and he thinks it is a 20-years-old rule to live in the town of Chichester.

Sarah says: "We were told to be close to Chichester and they're right. Park gives us the best of both worlds, walking distance to the town when on my evening jog with friends but also because it's not quite so far from the city centre. It is an ideal to the coast and swimming nearby. It's perfect for our weekend bike rides."

Graylingwell Park has recently been built, the latest addition to the house because it is built on the former hospital. The remaining 75 per cent of the house is a 25 per cent share of the house and it only costs £5,000 a month from Chichester city centre. The house is developed jointly by London Rivers, Ashbury Station and the 20 per cent share of the house and the 20 per cent share of the house.

All of the house was built with modern energy saving features including high levels of insulation and heating and hot water supplied to all houses by a central hot water pump plant.

now have a good sized garden to live in and family, and Nick's house is one of the first houses to be built in the town of Chichester.

Sarah says: "We're not a pay living house and our friends are always so impressed with our new house. Everything was made so easy by Ashbury Station - they were really helpful and took the stress away from the whole house buying process."

Body shop volunteers help at Trust

TWENTY THREE volunteers from the Body Shop in Littlehampton gave up an afternoon of their time to help out and support a local West Sussex based charity the Alhambra Centre Trust.

Karen and an invited volunteer spent their time clearing large areas of hedge and taking down the old post box in the Open Farm.

In addition to this, the Body Shop volunteers worked hard on the greenhouse, leveling paths, mowing, weeds and generally helping out in any of the hard plants in their former glory.

Country Centre manager Susan

Watkins was a success at just how much was achieved in so short a time and said: "I was delighted that the Body Shop staff volunteered their time to help us, they have done a brilliant job!"

Susan said the Alhambra Centre Trust's Volunteer Coordinator said: "We have a great relationship with the Body Shop and they have worked closely with the Trust in the past. It provided a great team building opportunity for the staff of the Body Shop, while helping out the Country Centre on projects that require regular attention, and we are grateful to the staff's help and assistance."

The group from the Body Shop took the opportunity of being around the Country Centre and saw first hand how much it relies on volunteers with its learning facilities to learn and develop a wide range of skills by offering a variety of social as well as business, such as work, cooking, singing, art, horticulture and other social and money skills.

Pallant House Gallery appoints new Director

PALLANT HOUSE GALLERY will soon be welcoming a new director after they announced that Gregory J. Perry has been appointed as Director, from 1 February 2013.

Gregory Perry has held the post of Director of Operations and Administration at the National Gallery since October 2009, where he was also a member of the Executive Committee.

Before this move to London, Gregory played a leading role in the development and direction of other national cultural organisations including as Executive Director of the National Art Museum in Washington and as Director of the John Voynich Foundation, Museum, New Jersey.

David Mowden, Chairman of the Trustees of Pallant House Gallery said: "All of us at Pallant House Gallery are delighted that Greg has decided to take up the post of Director. He has extensive and broad-ranging experience in both sides of the Atlantic and will be a terrific asset to the Gallery and its future success."

Gregory Perry said: "It is a privilege to join Pallant House Gallery as its new Director. The Gallery enjoys excellent reputation for its art collection, its strong collection of its own collection and a variety of activities. I look forward to working with the staff and supporters to ensure the rich traditions of Pallant House and its collection are well known to visitors from the South East, throughout the UK and internationally."

The Impossible (12A)

Rating: 12A (12 and over) View all film ratings and reviews

Starring: Ewan McGregor, Naomi Watts, Tom Hollander, Jonny Lee Miller, Golden Rodriguez, Geraldine Chaplin, Paolo Bonolis, Pippa Middleton, The 11th Doctor, Philippe Dierckx, Christopher Allen Boyd

Impossibly directed and impeccably written, this is a powerfully emotional drama with a lot of tender performances from Naomi Watts, Ewan McGregor and young Tom Holland.

What's it all about?

Directed by Juan Antonio Bayona (The Impossible), The Impossible is based on a true story of when Naomi Watts and Ewan McGregor as Maria and Lucas, a married British couple (the age is irrelevant), are vacationing in Thailand with their two young boys, Lucas (Tom Holland) and Jesse (Dexter Darden) on Christmas Eve, when the Indian Ocean tsunami hits their resort in Haad Yao, the couple quickly find themselves separated amidst the rising seas.

Maria and Lucas manage to stay together in the turbulent seas, but Maria is badly injured in the process and Lucas is forced to try and find her some medical treatment. Meanwhile, Maria manages to find the two young boys and the three begin a desperate search for Maria and Lucas.

The Good

Naomi Watts is terrific as Maria, delivering a powerful performance that is at once intensely physical and so achingly vulnerable. McGregor is a less challenging role as playful Lucas, but he pulls it off so powerfully moving, as does it, particularly in the scene where he tries to hold it all together while getting around a plane with some fellow survivors. In addition, young Tom Holland delivers performance largely unknown the film is another on handover, Lucas, forced to suddenly acquire a greater of self responsibility, while Jesse and Tom struggle to look up to the man and his fate.

The special effects during the tsunami sequence (especially shot within a great water tank) are extremely impressive, brought by Oscar. There is a great sense of awe and wonder at the top of that, Bayona pulls off the number of devastatingly nature of nature, as well as so much skillfully put together sequence of the scenes in such a way that the director spent a lot of time watching Lucas and Jesse (the two young boys) as they look for and eventually just missing each other.

The Bad

That said, The Impossible isn't entirely without flaws. One thing, the ending and dialogue before the tsunami is somewhat overly sentimental, a gaudy, like-sounding conversation between Watts and McGregor's characters about whether or not they should stay properly while they're on the plane. Similarly, while it is undeniably true that the film concentrates on the story of a single family, the net result of that is that you don't get a sense of the full scale of the tragedy, as whole almost 90,000 people were killed.

Worth seeing?

The Impossible is a well-made, powerfully emotional drama that pushes all the right buttons. It's a human work of art. You shouldn't.

Spire Portsmouth Hospital is delighted to welcome two new consultants to its expert orthopaedic team.

The new additions to Spire Portsmouth's acclaimed team are Orthopaedic Surgeons Mr Simon Cavanagh and Mr Lee Taylor.

Mr Cavanagh specialises in upper limb and shoulder surgery, including sports injuries and keyhole surgery.

He has worked in major orthopaedic hospitals in this country and abroad and has developed extensive skills in keyhole surgery for use in the shoulder.

Many of the conditions he manages are sports related injuries. Previous patients include test cricketers and rugby internationals.

Mr Taylor specialises in hip and knee surgery, including replacement joints, reconstruction and keyhole surgery.

A consultant for 25 years, he has extensive clinical and research experience in lower limb joint replacement and a special interest in sports injuries to the knee.

At Spire Portsmouth Hospital we are proud of our zero infection record, maintained through scrupulous cleanliness and good medical practice.

We understand that damaging a joint, bone or suffering a soft tissue injury can be distressing – that's why Spire Portsmouth Hospital can offer same day diagnosis and treatment plan with no lengthy waiting times.

Spire Portsmouth Hospital enjoys a peaceful, countryside location yet is only a 10 minute drive from Chichester via the A27 or the A3W.

DIY savvy Brits can save up to £4k per year

IF THE THOUGHT of being a wealthy job or leaving an estate, then you are in a cold sweat then you're not alone. Millions of Brits are throwing away thousands of pounds every year by paying external contractors to do jobs they could easily tackle themselves.

A poll by Thomas revealed Brits could save themselves up to £4,000 a year by learning a few simple home maintenance techniques.

The research looked into the reluctance to carry out maintenance, repairs and renovations around the home and whether with a bit of practice, willing and knowledge we could actually save ourselves substantial amounts of money.

John Randall, senior DIY expert and editor of RMT One & DIY SOS said: "If we took the time to actually learn a few basics and had a bit of practice instead of giving up at the first hurdle or not even starting in the first place, we could actually save ourselves with our skill and save money at the same time."

To help DIY shy Brits Thomas have launched a revolutionary new range of DIY repair products called D-CAN available in 300 shops nationwide.

The innovative D-CAN range is the first product to include master and apprentice which even the most experienced DIYer will be able to use, with the help of an online video guide to each product. These instructions can be found at www.dycan.co.uk

Number of British property millionaires hits 300,000

STOCKS DEMANDS for prime residential property during 2002 has created a strong market for British property on the scene over the past 12 months, according to the latest research from property website Zoopla.co.uk.

The average 2012-13 property value rose in London, up 15% from the same last year. The increase in property prices at the top end of the market during years was actually cheaper than the rest of the property market where house prices grew by just 11.6% overall. House price growth in London and the South East, fuelled by demand for equity rich houses and limited supply helped push the value of a further 25,000 UK house sales over £1 million a year in 2012.

At most, two-thirds (66%) of Britain's property millionaires live in London. The capital is no less richly property millionaires, with glitzy mansions created in the last 10 months, representing a 100% increase in property millionaires living in the city every day in the United Kingdom.

ExxonMobil, NY in London were the reason for the most property value increase in Europe with an average property value increase of £2,400/sq and where a statement that it will be met and increase.

worth over £1 million. The luxury pools of Kensington are home to Roman Altamora, along with the Duke and Duchess of Cambridge and who set the value of the square that floor space to an Aston Martin Bentley Continental as an open-air museum. It's

The most expensive street in the British or Commonwealth Prime Locations. Listed. Million over £m, the average income on the street is worth over £25 million. The exclusive address is home to Russian American businessman Leonid Mikhelich, the UK's top oilfield man, and to Likhachev. No.201 the wealthiest man in the UK with a private jet and a net worth of £1 billion. The London Factor.

The borough of Kensington and Chelsea is home to the most property millionaires with 36,293. Despite being the smallest London borough, covering just 12.5km², it contains 30% of London's property millionaires. The highest density by the borough of Westminster City, 273 which includes the Grosvenor Avenue of Mayfair and Park Lane. In third place is the borough of Camden 245,000 which includes Primrose Hill, home of the most property millionaires each at 23,000 residents. The wealthiest, St James's

Double-decker delight from Silverstone Auctions

ARGUABLY one of Britain's most iconic vehicles – a 1980 Leyland Atlantean and double-decker bus – is up for sale for the first time since it was built.

Offered at between £20,000 to £40,000, the example being offered at the Race Centre in Chichester is one of the last of its kind. It was built in 1980 and is one of the last of its kind. It was built in 1980 and is one of the last of its kind.

More recently it has been used for the 100th anniversary of the Battle of Britain.

Mark White, managing director of Silverstone Auctions, said: "This Leyland Atlantean is a great example of a great bus, serving the city for many years."

"For many people it remains the best way to travel, but it is still important to see the original, so it is not surprising to see an example on sale of interest to all."
